

TASM Plumbing Services was started in 2014. Tom is a licensed plumber with over 18 years experience. After completing his apprenticeship in residential and commercial plumbing, he went on to spend two years working in commercial and industrial plumbing. He then spent a year working in mechanical plumbing before returning to the industrial field for a further 10 years. Tom has extensive experience in residential, commercial and industrial plumbing. He is meticulous about his work and always makes sure that whatever job he is working on is completed to a high standard, using only the best quality materials. In 2014, Tom and his wife, Amy, formed TASM Plumbing Services as a family run business. Their business aim is to provide a service that is friendly, fast and reliable across the Illawarra. They make sure that they listen to the customer to ensure the job is done right, guaranteed!
