Roller Blinds

Pull them down for privacy, or roll them up and they virtually disappear from your window leaving you to enjoy the view outside. Advances in fabric performance and technology have added new versatility. Now one of the most functional ways of managing heat and light, your roller blinds can provide total sun block out or allow filtered light into your rooms. Over 30% of unwanted heat loss in winter and heat gain in summer takes place through windows. Reduce that heat transfer and you can reduce your power bills. Different rooms have different privacy issues, which is especially true in bathrooms, bedrooms and children's rooms. Roller blinds have the versatility to perform anywhere. You can save finger marks and stains by having your roller blinds motorised and operated using a remote control or switch.

After a hot day, the afternoon sun can be mild making your outdoor area comfortably pleasant and, combined with a gentle breeze, brings a calm serenity into your home. It can reduce the cost of your home energy bills when you are able to manage how much, or how little, heat you allow into your home. This means you end up paying less for cooling. When winter rolls in, you simply fold up the awnings and welcome the warmth of the winter sun to comfortably and cheaply warm your home.

Auto Guide Awnings

Auto Guide Awnings, which are sometimes called Lock Arm Awnings, are one of Fashionline's most popular exterior blind systems. They can be raised and lowered to whatever position you want, by simply sliding the arms on the guide rods. This puts you in control of how much light comes through the window. The arms hold the fabric close to the window giving maximum heat and light protection while still letting the air flow into your home. They are perfect for ground floor or balcony windows and you can choose from PolyCotton canvas, acrylic or mesh fabrics. Did you know, outside awnings are able to reflect up to 70% of heat before it reaches the window? That's a significant difference and when winter arrives, you simply roll up the awnings and welcome the warmth of the winter sun to comfortably and cheaply warm your home.
