

WORK FOR STORAGE KING!

So you want to work for Storage King?

If you want to work for a company that encourages creativity, innovation, and a fun working environment then Storage King offers this.

Storage King is a young and dynamic organisation that is looking for people who can create a positive and enjoyable experience for all of our customers and employees.

Recognised as a market leader in the self storage industry in Australia, New Zealand and the United Kingdom, Storage King believes in growing its business through its people. To continue in leading the market we are looking for team members who display achievement, ambition, customer focus, motivation, sales drive, team work, and a desire to make the working environment memorable and fun.

We further believe that the success of Storage King depends on motivated, well-trained people and ensure all employees receive quality training and opportunities to develop to their full potential. If you have worked in self-storage before, we'd be interested in hearing from you. If not, Storage King is an equal opportunity employer and hires people from a variety of employment backgrounds and experiences. We do prefer our people come from a retail, sales or customer service based employment background and, most importantly the drive to succeed in a sales and store management career. We provide industry-specific induction and training.

If this sounds like you, please consider our current vacancies and contact us.
