

hello

I'm Matt Mason

Sales Consultant

Whether he is playing golf, fishing, or spending time on the river with friends, Matt Mason is most happy when he is enjoying the great outdoors. It therefore comes as little surprise that he chose a vocation that allows him to get out from behind a desk and interact with people.

Having worked in real estate since 2005, Matt started with the Barry Plant Group in 2010. Throughout his career he has enjoyed great success, winning numerous sales awards and cementing his position as a leading real estate agent.

Extremely focused and committed to providing excellent customer service, Matt ensures his clients receive the same level of service that he expects from service industries.

"Barry Plant's company philosophy of providing clients a red carpet experience is one that I take very seriously. I believe my willingness to go the extra mile for clients has been the catalyst in achieving success as a real estate professional," he says.

Matt is also dedicated to extending his professional development and enjoys attending the vast array of training programs offered by the Barry Plant network.

"By attending training sessions that further my skills and keep my knowledge up-to-date, I am ensuring the ongoing benefits and value of my service to my clients. Real estate sales is a job that can be both challenging and rewarding – so it's important to stay at the top of my game."

A dedicated family man, Matt is the lucky father of two beautiful daughters, Lilly and Bella. Matt dreams of one day purchasing and renovating a property in which he and his lovely wife can watch the girls grow up.
