TIMING IS EVERYTHING

When is the right time to sell my property?

One of the biggest decisions a property owner or investor needs to make is choosing the right time to sell.

So, how do you decide?
And who really knows?

The answers to the above questions are complex and require much more than a 'gut-feel' or freely available market summaries for your suburb. It requires expertise and established networks and connections with access to detailed information about market movements and activities.

Deciding to sell is a big decision and we believe it requires the professional guidance and expertise of a local agent with extensive knowledge and a commitment to helping their clients make the right decision based on reliable market indicators and experience.

Peter Fitzgerald Real Estate has built its reputation on reliability, professionalism, expertise and service – and we would be delighted to help you make an informed decision about your property today.

Please feel free to contact us at a time most suitable to you.
