Your pleasure is our priority and to achieve this there's a few ground rules you should know.

So, you want to contact an escort

Ah, the pivotal moment of initial contact with an escort, a crucial step where impressions truly matter. Escorts are discerning individuals assessing potential clients within moments of interaction ensuring a relaxed and comfortable environment.

Understanding and adhering to an escort's preferred method of contact is paramount and sets the tone to establish contact effectively. All escorts prefer unblocked numbers, as calls from private numbers will go unanswered.

Whether via text, email, or call, maintaining a polite and concise manner is deeply appreciated. A brief introduction, accompanied by your location, desired appointment time and type of service sets a respectful tone. If leaving a message, specifying preferred contact times enhances communication efficiency.

Respect and courtesy are non-negotiable in all interactions. Crude or offensive language not only fails to impress but may also lead to ignored requests and blacklisting.

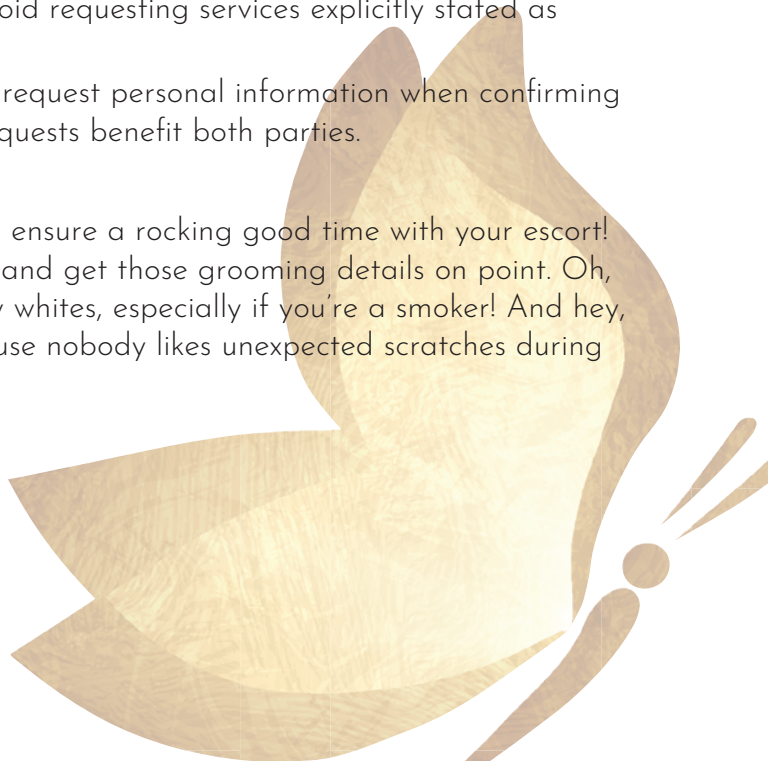

While explicit language may have its place in intimate encounters, it has no role in booking arrangements. Any attempt to negotiate rates is considered disrespectful and should be avoided.

Thoroughly reviewing an escort's profile before contacting them ensures inquiries are to the point and respectful. Avoid requesting services explicitly stated as unavailable.

For security purposes, escorts may request personal information when confirming bookings. Compliance with such requests benefit both parties.

Preparing for your rendezvous

Keep your hygiene game strong to ensure a rocking good time with your escort! Hit the showers, tame the stubble, and get those grooming details on point. Oh, and don't forget about your pearly whites, especially if you're a smoker! And hey, smooth out those fingernails, because nobody likes unexpected scratches during playtime!

Hosting vs Visiting

Hosting an escort at your home? Provide fresh linen, tidy surroundings, and a clean bathroom to demonstrate hospitality. Ensure privacy by avoiding unexpected arrivals during their visit.

When offering beverages, opt for sealed bottles and open them in the escort's presence. If visiting their residence, respect their privacy and maintain discretion, especially when seeking directions.

Understand and respect individual boundaries regarding alcohol consumption, as preferences vary among escorts. Intoxication negatively impacts performance, so moderation is key to maximizing pleasure.

First encounter

Ensure you have adhered to all payment terms and if paying by cash, the fee is ready for your escort upon arrival. It's customary to have the correct amount prepared in an envelope and placed visibly. Give your escort a moment to verify everything is in order.

Initiate the visit with friendly conversation to break the ice. Respect your escorts privacy and discretion by refraining from personal inquiries. If your escort shares personal details voluntarily, avoid probing further.

Engage warmly with your companion, enjoy the conversation, and sprinkle in a bit of humour. This creates a relaxed atmosphere, fostering connection between you both. Though brief, this time is crucial for building chemistry, setting the stage for what lies ahead.

Exploring the intimacy

Get ready for the grand finale of your escort's service, the moment that's got you buzzing with anticipation. Let them work their magic and show you how, let's be honest, they've got skills! But hey, don't let the heat of the moment cloud your judgement. Respect your ladies' boundaries. It's all about open communication and getting on the same page about what's on offer.

And let's face it, there will be times when you're just itching for more of your escorts company, craving that extra dose of fun. If your companion's schedule allows and you wish to extend for an encore, just remember payment.
