Bedbug Information

Bedbugs are very small, reddish brown parasitic insects. They are flat with no wings and grow between 6 and 9 mm in length. Bedbugs spend most of their time hiding in cracks and crevices of bed linen, mattresses, furniture or chairs. They only move about for short periods to seek a meal of blood, typically from humans. They usually emerge when people are in a deep sleep, attracted by heat and carbon dioxide we produce.

House cleanliness assists with the control of bedbugs but infestations can occur with movement of bedding or luggage that has been in contact with an infestation from elsewhere.

Targeted Treatments

Treating bedbug infestations effectively requires a dual approach. We use an approved insecticide that has residual benefits and will continue to remain effective over time. Bedbugs must come in contact with the insecticide and when they do, they will die.

Secondly and no less important, are a series of strict housekeeping practices which must be adopted to reduce further infestations. Termitrust provides professional advice on these practices as part of our overall bedbug services.

Did you know...

- Bed bugs can live anywhere. They can thrive in family homes, apartments, hospitals, office buildings, schools, buses, trains, cinemas, retail stores and just about anywhere where there are humans
- An adult bedbug can survive up to one year without feeding
- After feeding, bed bugs move to secluded places and hide for 5-10 days. During this time, they do not feed but instead digest their meal, mate and lay eggs
